

There will be signs upon the sun;
the moon and stars will share Earth's agony,
and ev'ry nation will be fearful of the sound:
the ocean's roar, the raging sea;
then they will see the Son of man riding the clouds with pow'r and glory;
hold up your heads, your liberation is at hand:
your destiny, your destiny.

*O stay awake, do not fear the night;
the dawn will break with the Saviour's light,
your liberation is at hand; O stay awake!*

The time is near; we must arise,
no longer living in the dark of night.
So arm yourselves as people living in the way of truthfulness, integrity, and hold a dream of days to come when we will reach God's holy mountain and charge all weapons into instruments of peace to sow the seed of justice.
