

*Unite us, Lord, in peace,
and uphold us with Your love.*

Our faults divide and hinder;
Your grace can make us one;
we wonder at Your rising,
Your light is like the sun.

You are our expectation
in loneliness and pain;
Your healing and Your pardon
are greater than our sin.

Lord, look upon the starving
and set the captive free.
Share out among each other
the bread of unity.

How happy are the people
who strive to be at one,
who learn to live as brothers,
who lay their hatred down.

O Lord, Whose silent Spirit
enlightens and endows,
make us in faith receptive
and help us love Your house.

Your cross will draw together
the love of humankind;
in You shall all the people their true communion find.

Death can no longer hurt us,
triumphant is Your word.
Let life now grow and blossom,
O Jesus, risen Lord!
